Dear Ma[REDACTED],

While expanding our peeling reach through the external sheds, are we factoring in some agreement on what would be done with the shell waste generated from these sheds?

Technically our current agreement with the vendor states that we have to give it all to him. Since we are using this capacity to process more quantities, for now we should be able to manage even if we are unable to give all, however – important that we are transparent about it and the key people are aware of it.

Best Regards,
